

tan church. The minister is the Rev. Edward L. Harvey, pastor of the Metropolitan church of Waukesha, which is part of Farson's church syndicate.

The charge has to do with the grabbing of nearly $4,000 of the estate of a wanderer who entered into a little mission conducted on Van Buren street by Rev. Harvey and backed by Duke Farson.

The wanderer was sick in soul and body. He got into the little mission because he wanted to find God. And the linen-frocked Harvey repeated to him the words of Nazarene. So the wanderer died in the firm belief that Harvey was in touch with God and had guided his footsteps to the Golden Ladder.

It is perhaps well the wanderer died without finding out too much of the little mission and the sanctity of Harvey and the philanthropy of Banker Farson.

For the charges before the grand jury carry the accusation that when the wanderer, who was known in his lifetime as Andrew Zuromski, died he left an estate of $5,181 in cash on deposit in the First Trust & Savings. After Public Administrator Devine got through the legal end of disposing of it, there remained $5,264. Of this Zuromski's widow received only $1,000. Nearly $4,000 went to Harvey and Farson, say their accusers; $500 went to an agent in the deal.

Frank Messenger and Edward De Right, who were formerly connected with the mission, told the story to the grand jury. They are now in the publishing business. They said Zuromski's widow resides in Jersey City.

As the alleged robbery of the dead occurred in 1909, the statute of limitations has expired in Farson's case. Because he has resided continually in this city he was not indicted. The law got its chance with Harvey. He moved to Waukesha a few years ago.

Farson is a member of the Farson family so prominently identified with Chicago and Lake Forest society. He is head of Duke M. Farson & Co., bond dealers, 53 W. Jackson blvd. Newspapers have carried columns about his Metropolitan church and his general "philanthropic and uplift" work.

Harvey is also well known to newspaper readers. He was of a type that finds it easy to get millionaire supporters for "rescue work in the slums."

IMMEDIATE SETTLEMENT OF IRISH QUESTION PROBABLE

London, Dec. 16. — The long-delayed settlement of the Irish question is now visible. An amicable union of the Ulsterites and Southern Irishmen was nearer today than it ever has been since the futile passage of the home rule bill in 1914.

Lloyd-George's negotiations following the Dublin revolt, which outwardly were a failure, nevertheless have been steadily and quietly progressing. They have now reached a stage where a definite favorable announcement may be expected at any time.
